Planning Staff Adds Many New Functions and Capital Projects

by Thomas X. White

At a Budget Worksession on Thursday, April 8, Celia Craze, Greenbelt's director of Planning and Community Development, made sure that council received all the information they needed to evaluate her department's budget needs for the FY 2005 budget. In a session lasting until 11:30 p.m., Craze covered all facets of the department's current responsibilities for planning, community development, animal control and its expanding role in managing the city's capital projects.

Craze started off the evening by noting that this was her 18th budget. The department's activities are guided by several basic values, she said – completion of its operational tasks, providing service to Greenbelt citizens, protecting the legacy of the historic core and “utilizing the authorities we have been given to protect the public health and safety.”

She traced the history of the department from 1986 when she began her career as city planner, when all city inspections were done with consulting inspectors; through the '90s when the department and its responsibilities grew with in-house inspections, authority for sediment and erosion control, development of the property maintenance code and code enforcement, development of the city alarm licensing and registration; to the recent years when animal control, the noise ordinance, enforcement of civil codes and increased planning and zoning responsibilities were added.

She reviewed the department's accomplishments during the past year. Council seemed to pay more attention to several just-completed projects or those nearly so and where reports will be transmitted for review to council. Mayor Judith Davis expressed interest in a recent crosswalk study and looks forward to reviewing its recommendations and a proposed maintenance plan. Also of interest is the department's report on the study of boundary encroachments along the Greenbelt Lake path adjacent to Lakeside homes. Councilmember Leta Mach expressed appreciation for the department's efforts with foot patrols in Roosevelt Center for “nuisance abatement.”

In regard to the somewhat controversial enactment of a new ordinance by the previous council to address the problem of cars being parked for long periods in residential neighborhoods (for greater than 30 days), Craze reported that seven such vehicles have been removed by towing since the new ordinance came into force.

With the new animal control facility being constructed adjacent to the rear of the police station, the animal control program engendered some discussion. Craze characterized Greenbelt's animal control program as “non-euthanizing,” with loose or abandoned animals held for five days, after which the city begins ads for adoptive placement or seeks foster homes.

Future Concerns

Next on the agenda was a discussion of challenges and issues facing the department in the FY2005 budget and beyond. With its mission continuing to expand, the department's ability

City Council and Developer At Impasse on Annexation

by Virginia Beauchamp

Shortly after 9 p.m. at the Wednesday, April 7 Greenbelt City Council worksession with representatives of Metroland LLC – a meeting scheduled to complete an agreement concerning plans for the future Greenbelt Station development – Mayor Judith Davis read a short prepared statement bringing the session to an end. By then only a few citizen commentators had spoken.

At issue in cutting off discussion, Davis said, had been the inability of the city staff to broker an agreement with Metroland on what Davis described as “several key points” – most importantly “deletion of the provision allowing the city to annex the south core.”

(The south core is the section of property owned by the A. H. Smith Company that lies south of the Metro parking lot and abuts on Branchville Road, the Beltway Plaza west of Cherrywood Lane and Cherrywood Lane.)

This property is not currently within the city limits of Greenbelt nor any other adjacent municipality. Development of the property would have most impact on Greenbelt, however – its traffic and other services. The city is therefore concerned about the issues of annexation and about all development plans.

Although several points of difference had been unresolved at the March 29 regular council meeting when the city and the developers had earlier discussed the subject, those concerned felt both parties were very close. At that time the April 7 worksession had been scheduled to complete the agreement.

Indeed, as recently as April 2, Alfred H. Smith, Jr., an owner of the south core tract, had listed in a letter those topics on which he believed agreement between the city and the developers had been reached. At the top of the list was annexation.

Smith's letter expressed disappointment that council at the March 29 meeting had failed to accept the compromise negotiated with his company by the city staff. Besides annexation, he listed other topics of agree-

GHI President Eichhorst Meets with HUD Official

by Altoria Bell Ross

Greenbelt Homes Inc. President Julia Eichhorst, joining other board members from the National Association of Housing Cooperatives (NAHC), met with Allen H. Jones, the senior advisor and special assistant for cooperative housing at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) on April 2. Jones serves as HUD's point person for cooperative housing issues and policy. The purpose of the meeting was to brief NAHC about a study that HUD is doing on using the cooperative model to increase minority homeownership. In May, HUD will award the contract for the study to be completed in time for NAHC's mid-August annual conference in Boston.

At last year's annual conference in Atlanta, the NAHC membership elected Eichhorst to a three-year term on the board of directors. Eichhorst is a legal administrative specialist in the record information dissemination section (formally known as the Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts section in the Records Management Department) at the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Located in Washington, D.C., NAHC is a nonprofit organization that represents, informs, perpetuates and inspires the nation's housing cooperatives.

St. Hugh's Student Gov. Meets with Senator Pinsky

by Liz Whelan

The State of Maryland may soon have something to say about schools installing vending machines. The St. Hugh's Student Government discussed this issue with State Senator Paul G. Pinsky at the State House in Annapolis.

During the leadership field trip, the Student Government representatives from grades five to eight had the opportunity to tour the State House, sit in on a session in the Senate Chamber and get a guided tour including many interesting details on the legislative process. “I was surprised that they are only in session for 90 days and that each bill has to be read three times in each house,” said sixth grader

Rachael Rogers. Fifth grader Gabriella Gunawan agreed, “Getting a bill passed takes a long time and it's a lot of work.”

Restrictions on new drivers is also a bill sponsored by Senator Pinsky that was the focus of another discussion. The students began the day quiet and apprehensive, but soon began to ask questions and share their opinions on the bills. “I liked the room where President George Washington resigned from the army,” said fifth grade representative Devin Gibson. “Real people from history were in there.”

After their meeting with Senator Pinsky, the students rounded out the day by touring the historic harbor area of Annapolis.

"Crazy Quilt" of Musicality To Cover Roosevelt Center

by Eileen Peterson

Eleven hours of diverse musical acts will blanket Roosevelt Center this Saturday, April 17, from noon to 11 p.m., with sounds and sights from as far away as northern California. Crazy Quilt, a Spring Musical Festival organized by Friends of New Deal Café Arts (FONDCA), kicks off the annual outdoor concerts in the city's core.

A full list of musicians can be found on posters dotted around the city.

Paul Kamm and Eleanore MacDonald provide acoustic songs described as "neo-impressionist folk music." They combine simple arrangements with intricate guitar work and their close harmony speaks to environmental and social issues as well as to personal relationships. Their diversity is featured on six albums to date.

A drummers' circle with dancing will begin the program and new-to-Greenbelt artists – from blues to acoustic rock to "punk folk" and jazz – will be interspersed with New Deal Café regulars. Mike Elosh, Waverly and J.R., Gina DeSimone, Doug Way and Cliff Art return to punctuate the program.

This event is co-sponsored by the New Deal Café and the City of Greenbelt, which provided a grant for the outdoor concert series.

The concerts are partially funded by monies from an annual "used treasures" sale, this year set for the following Saturday, April 24 (see ad for concert and for yard sale on page 3).

Greenbelters were saddened to hear of the death of Kathleen Weber. Mrs. Weber took an active part in Greenbelt Homes.

Our condolences to Larry Crabill of Boxwood Village and sons Cory and Brian and extended family on the death of his wife and their mother, Joan, a long-time resident of Greenbelt.

Congratulations to Danielle Marie Miller of Edmonston Road who has been named to the Dean's List for the fall 2003 semester at Hood College.

Congratulations also to Michelle Diann Williams of Edmonston Road who is a second year honor student at Southern Illinois University Carbondale.

It's another grandson for editor Mary Lou and Jim Williamson of Lakeside Drive. Daughter Carolyn had her fourth child on Wednesday, April 14, 2004. Daddy Til will bring Katie, 7, Meredith, 5, and Brant, 3, to the hospital to see their new brother Thursday after school. Meanwhile mom and dad are working on a name. The baby weighed 10 lbs., 15 oz. and was 23 inches long – a record for the Jolly children, who live with their parents in McLean, Va.

Ken and Elaine Baker of Sicklerville, N.J., are happy to announce the birth of Devon Elizabeth who made her debut, one month early, on April 4, 2004, weighing 5 lbs. 9 oz. Report on Tom Renahan's Work in Iraq

by Sandra Lange

Greenbelter Tom Renahan traveled to Iraq in December as part of a team working to create a democratic government. He felt strongly that he wanted to help the Iraqi people write their Constitution. Renahan has a one-year contract with Research Triangle, Inc., (RTI) a subcontractor to International City Management Association. He was scheduled to return to the United States in March for three weeks before returning to Iraq. However, he e-mailed this reporter that he was so busy that he decided to postpone his return until late April or May. Renahan stated that "I am supervising a 35-member team, our democracy presentations were just getting on a roll and I needed to stay until we were farther along."

However, recent terrorist attacks against foreigners, especially Americans, have made it very dangerous to remain in the country. Renahan reports that he and most of the RTI team are in Kuwait, where they were moved in response to the serious security problems that have developed in most parts of Iraq. "So, I am well but frustrated," he wrote, "as my program was going very well and is now suspended."

Renahan noted that he met with former Greenbelt police officer Doug Sappington who is also working in Iraq.

Literary Trivia At “Explorations”

Join “Explorations Unlimited” for a literary talk on Friday, April 23, the birthday of Vladimir Nabokov and what’s-his-name, the author of Hamlet.

Discover what Nelson Mandela scribbled in the margin of the Robben Island prison library’s copy of Shakespeare. Find out why Mary Ann Evans, Aurora Dupin and Gabriella Mistral all chose men’s names as their pseudonyms. Why and how did Sonia Tolstoy manage to posthumously trash the reputation of her noble husband, Count Leo? Why did the homosexual W. H. Auden marry Erika Mann, the daughter of his friend Thomas? How many people know that Marco Polo, Thomas Malory, Fyodor Dostoyevsky and Martin Luther King, Jr. all wrote brilliant works while in prison?

Isn’t it odd that Socrates and Jesus left no writings at all? Maybe the topics of literary forgeries, authorial suicide and great unfinished books can be treated, at least a bit. Come and sample James Joyce’s brilliant (and maddening) prose and share Mary Oliver’s belief in the lofty function of great, humane literature. Jim Link will be the speaker who will be discussing all these bizarre and delectable truths about talented writers at 1 p.m. on Friday, April 23. Link has been a teacher at Prince George’s Community College for 15 years, teaching both basic, developmental English and mythology. He is also a resident of Greenbelt.

“Explorations Unlimited” is a speaker series held every Friday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Center. This presentation will be held in the senior classroom. Everyone is welcome to attend and questions are always encouraged. Call 301-397-2208 for more information.

City Blood Drive Coming on April 23

The next blood drive in Greenbelt sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department and the American Red Cross will be held at the Greenbelt Community Center on Friday, April 23 from noon to 6 p.m.

As at the last blood drive, walk-ins will be accepted at the end of each hour to fill in for appointees who fair to show.

Human life according to Islam is the most sacred entity on earth. Preservation of life is the primary goal of the Islamic law.

This is what God says in the Quran to anyone who takes an innocent life:
"... it is as if he slew the whole of mankind; and if anyone saved a life, it is as if he saved the whole of mankind"
—The Holy Quran 5:35

ment: site plan review, wetlands, floodplain, densities, land uses and transportation.
A settlement between the parties is important since it could bring about the city's agreement to dismiss its legal appeals before the Court of Special Appeals concerning the concept plan for Greenbelt Station and the preliminary plan of development. Before and after the March 29 meeting, city staff had been working hard with the developers to reconcile any remaining differences.
But now reconciliation seemed very far away. “[B]ecause of the developer's position,” Davis read, “the city will not consider the matter this evening.” At the same time she made it clear that productive discussion “would continue with the developer” – as she put it, “to address the city's concerns and improve the proposed Greenbelt Station project.”
What Happened?
Between Smith's April 2 letter and the April 7 meeting, what had occurred to remove from the list of issues the idea of possible annexation by the city?

Yet this was not the only issue, Davis said in an interview. For a time the city's right to approve the site plan, after first having been agreed to, had also been taken away by the developer. Following further negotiation, however, this right to site plan approval had been restored.
Not so the right of first option for annexation.
So what had happened? All that the city knew, as council, staff and members of the public gathered for the April 7 meeting, was that an agreement that had been within inches of having been hammered out had unraveled. And so, suddenly, there was nothing on the agenda for council's worksession.
The city is still “open to further negotiation,” Davis told this reporter. However, she said, no meeting can take place until an agreement is worked out again between both parties.

April 2004

Dear Citizens and Business Owners of Greenbelt:

It is that time again to ask for your generous donations to help support the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc. We will be starting our Annual General Fund Drive in April. We truly appreciate your contributions during the previous fund drives.

You will receive your donation package in the mail during the month of April. You may choose to either mail your donation back to us or bring it to the station and hand it to one of our volunteers. We are located at: 125 Crescent Rd. Greenbelt, MD. If you should misplace your donation package, you can still mail us your contribution. Our new mailing address is: Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Dept., 125 Crescent Rd., Greenbelt, MD 20770.

As in the past. I would like to emphasize strongly that you do not accept any solicitations over the telephone from persons identifying themselves as members or representatives of the Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc. We only ask for donations through the mail for this annual general fund drive during the month of April.

We have received some questions from concerned citizens as to some of our other scheduled fundraisers. Our Ladies Auxiliary conducts a picture portrait fund drive in the fall. This fundraiser involves representatives from a contracted corporation that go door to door throughout the city of Greenbelt. They are instructed to show a city permit and a letter from the Ladies Aux. During the month of December we conduct what we call our annual boot drive. We station our members at various intersections collecting donations.

Again, may I thank you for your very important past and continued support during our upcoming General Fund Drive.

Regards,

Jay A. Remenick, President
Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Inc.

FREE Extreme Smile Makeover Comes to Greenbelt!

Many have seen the unbelievable transformations people have received on the popular television show "Extreme Makeover." The McCarl Dental Group, Greenbelt's "first family" of dentistry since 1938, has been inspired by that theme and will be selecting someone from the greater Greenbelt area for an extreme smile makeover at no charge to the patient.

Changing a smile can change a life. The idea was presented last month at a conference in Utah by Becden Laboratory, a nationally known dental lab that specializes in cosmetic porcelain veneers and crowns. Becden has assisted the McCarl Dental Group in many cosmetic cases over the years.

The three Doctors McCarl will accept requests until May 1 before selecting the patient. The treatment will only take a few weeks to finish. Smile makeovers can frequently cost between $5,000 and $15,000. The patient must be an adult in good health, live in the surrounding area, have no underlying dental or medical problem that would make cosmetic work inappropriate and be willing to have their name and "before and after" photos published.

Interested parties should submit a smile photo clearly showing their front teeth, name and address, phone and a brief description of themselves by mail to the McCarl Dental Group, 28 Ridge Road, Greenbelt, MD 20770. Due to the anticipated volume of requests, applications cannot be taken over the phone. Applicants will receive notification that the letter and photo were received but the photos will not be returned. A photo of the person selected will be published in the Greenbelt News Review.

"No matter where you go, you always have your smile! If you or someone you know would be deserving of a fabulous smile makeover, submit their name and photo today. It could change their life!"

to meet the capacity and timing for needed services continues to be a major concern.

The department is facing a number of challenges. In the planning area, several critical projects are looming on the horizon: overseeing the proposed Greenbelt Station development and the potential redevelopment of the Springhill Lake apartment project; working with the newly created Forest Preserve Task Force on the development of maintenance/management guidelines for the designated preserves; coordination with the Greenbelt East communities on specific traffic calming projects and starting work on a comprehensive long-range plan for Greenbelt. In addition, the proposed budget also contemplates a return of full responsibility to the department's staff for the city's capital projects.

In total, there are currently 25 planning projects, 17 capital projects, nine development review projects and 11 administrative-type projects either open or actively being worked on by the department staff. While these and other new initiatives are added to the department's workload, the manager's proposed budget adds no new staffing.

The budget text, however, includes several departmental requests for additional staffing: repeating a request for a half-time office assistant (creating a full-time position), a new request for an additional full-time inspector (as a code compliance officer) and another request for a half-time Animal Control Officer (mainly for greater coverage in the off hours). Craze estimated the total cost for these positions as approximately $75,000.

Other challenges were a serious space shortage, primarily for archived files and plan documents, and a need to replace two older vehicles used by the department.

On the revenue side, the planning and community development budget includes an estimated $472,000 in assorted permits and license fees. Council has received a memo regarding the department review of its fee structure and will consider the memo and staff recommendations and possibly make changes to the budget.

Capital Projects

Following the review of the proposed planning, community development and animal control budgets, council next reviewed the Capital Projects Fund section of the budget. The manager's proposed budget appropriates a $390,000 contribution from the General Fund for Capital Projects for FY2005. This amount, combined with other funding sources such as Program Open Space, state and other grant funds and city bond authorization funds, is estimated by the manager to total $1,156,000 and be able to fund 18 listed proposed capital projects for FY2005.

Assuming the 18 projects are completed, the fund is projected to end the year with a balance of $231,593. Funds are included to study an expansion of the police station and its parking lot, to develop additional traffic calming projects (other than Greenbelt East) and for bus shelters, gateway signage for city entrances and a Metro Access Drive/Cherrywood Lane roundabout. Other projects in the works are street resurfacing for Prince James Way and Lakecrest Drive, sidewalk and other concrete repairs, the proposed restroom facility at Buddy Attick Park, the proposed skatepark and city assistance with the construction of an Astronomy Club observatory at Northway Fields.

Community Center window repairs, a proposed "Wall of Honor" at the Community Center, the next phase of work on upgrading city playgrounds and restoration of the historic bas relief and Mother and Child sculptures are also on the list. Finally, a planning process for assessing community needs at the Northway Fields, including a boundary study for the forest preserve in the adjacent area; seed money for restoration of the derelict Jaycees Clubhouse adjacent to Attick Park; the repair of the Youth Center gym floor and a stabilization program for the storm water outfall at the south side of the Greenhill Road underpass are also on the department's agenda.

In keeping with tradition, council's review of the proposed projects did not go into detail at this time. Following the adoption of the budget, council will schedule another worksession to evaluate and prioritize the proposed projects.

General Fund

In response to a question regarding the $390,000 included in the manager's proposed budget for the General Fund contribution to the Capital Projects fund, Assistant to the City Manager David Moran noted that the $390,000 figure was less than the equivalent of a three and a half cent tax levy, the amount that previous council policy had set for this contribution. Moran indicated that at an upcoming budget worksession covering "Miscellaneous Funds," city staff will propose some ideas to address adequate annual funding of the Capital Projects fund as well as the Replacement Fund for equipment and the new Building Maintenance Fund. Council could then consider those proposals in their decisions on the final approved budget.

In her closing remarks to council, Craze provided council with her views regarding the manager's proposed changes to the Leave Buy Back Program (see News Review, April 8, "First Budget Review by Council"). Although the city manager believes that his proposal would have the least impact on the city employees in the lower pay grades and that the savings would allow other choices for the benefit program that would impact all classified employees, Craze asked council to avoid situations (in the program change) where employees are treated differently. She feels that the proposal reduces benefits for only a certain portion of city employees.

The mayor and councilmembers expressed appreciation for the tireless efforts by Craze and her staff in the ongoing negotiations over the past several months with the Metroland developers.
